Adventurers and Mystics
CBC1737 Digitized Video 106:37 min JI 2000
With the search for the Northwest Passage and the expansion of the Grand Banks fishery, the New World soon becomes a destination for permanent European colonies, in Newfoundland and along the St. Lawrence. Samuel de Champlain begins his legendary journeys, and the precarious beginnings of New France are established. It is an era of unprecedented alliances and devastating conflicts with native people, driven by the merchants’ search for furs and the Jesuits’ quest for souls. After a half-century of struggle, with the colony on the verge of extinction, Louis XIV takes personal control, sending French soldiers to defend the struggling outpost and eligible young women, the “filles du roi”, to become their wives.

Claiming the Wilderness
CBC1738 Digitized Video
51:08 min JI 2000
A small French settlement in New France builds a flourishing society and stakes a claim to a massive continent between 1660 and 1750. New France's populace includes shopkeepers, artisans, farmers and landlords, as well as fur-trading expansionists like Governor Frontenac and his commercial partner, Robert Cavelier de La Salle, who build a network of Indian alliances and extend French trading posts to the Gulf of Mexico. But this fast-paced growth brings New France into ever more bitter conflict with the wealthier and more numerous - but less venturesome - British colonists to the south. The story culminates with the heartrending deportation of more than 10,000 French Catholic Acadians as the struggle to possess North America enters its final, decisive phase.

Discovering First Peoples and First Contacts
75119 Book
64 p. J 2000
Discovering First Peoples and First Contacts takes the young reader on a journey that follows early European explorers and Aboriginal people as they cross the country searching for furs, trade routes, and adventure. This book begins by describing the arrival of the Aboriginal peoples in the land we now call Canada. After learning about the diverse cultures to these groups, we move along to the period of contact, when Aboriginal peoples and Europeans meet for the first time. The Vikings are the first Europeans to arrive on the shore of North America, though they are followed centuries later by Spanish, English, and French explorers. Students will learn the reasons that brought Europeans to North America, as well as the results of the trade and settlement that followed.

New France - French Settlers, First Nations
76621
Book 36 p. JI 2007
New France - "New France" is a term used to describe the territory in North America claimed by France from the early 1500s until 1763. At its height, New France stretched from the Atlantic coast to the foothills of the Rockies, and from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. In New France, students will learn about how the French first settled North America, and the impact these settlers had on the First Nations people. First Nations - New France: First nations presents the colonization of New France as an event that had a massive impact on the life and cultures of First Nations peoples. Colonization allowed the First Nations to profit from the riches of the fur trade, yet ultimately proved destructive to traditional patterns of life. Contains 8 books and 1 guide.

The Pathfinders - Rebellion and Reform

73074 DVD
240 min JIS 2000 Canadian Broadcasting Corp.
The Pathfinders - The opening of the Canadian West is a story of great fur trading empires; the native people who were their allies and collaborators; explorers and map makers. This epic covers two centuries and the territories from the Great Lakes to the Arctic Ocean. It is a tale of renegades like Pierre Esprit Radisson, who founded an English trading empire; soldiers like Pierre Gaultier de Varennes, who spent a lifetime searching for the Western Sea; and Matonabbee, the Dene chief who led Samuel Hearne on a trek into the Barren Lands. The episode concludes as settlers on the prairies and gold miners in British Columbia begin to claim the West for themselves. For grades 5-12. Rebellion and Reform - This episode focuses on the rebellions of 1837-8, the political conflicts that led to them, and their unexpected consequences. Through the figures of Joseph Howe, Louis-Joseph Papineau and William Lyon Mackenzie, it traces the different courses these political conflicts took in Nova Scotia, Lower Canada and Upper Canada. Despite the repression that followed the Canadian rebels' defeat, within ten years English and French-speaking politicians would establish a long-lasting political partnership that won the prize of self-government. For grades 5-12.

Ordeal By Fire - 1915 to 1929 Canada's heavy military role in World War I (60,000 dead in a population of 8 million) transforms its society, its politics and its place in the world. The horror, bravery and sacrifice of trench warfare are evoked in Canada's great battles: Ypres, the Somme, Vimy Ridge, Couchelette and Paschendaele. The domestic consequences of Canada's war effort are also wrenching - the conscription crisis of 1917 marks a low point in English-French relations. After the war ends, labour revolts in Winnipeg and across the country raise fears of a Bolshevik insurrection. The return to stability in the mid-1920s lasts only briefly as the crash of 1929 plunges the country into economic chaos. For grades 5-12. Hard Times - 1929 to 1940 Canada's economy collapses during the 1930s, creating a prolonged political and social crisis. In the context of the Dust Bowl, the relief camps and the Regina Riot, political leaders such as William Aberhart, Maurice Duplessis, and Mitchell Hepburn capture national attention. Meanwhile, an increasingly menacing international climate sees the rise of fascism and mounting likelihood of another world war. When war does arrive, Canada finds itself fighting virtually alone at Britain's side. For grades 5-12.

A Stranger at Home
Christy Jordan-Fenton, Margaret Pokiak-Fenton 76620 Book
124 p. JI 2011
Ten-yr-old Margaret can hardly contain her excitement. After two years in a residential boarding school, she is finally headed for home. But, when she stands before her family at last, her mother doesn’t recognize her, shouting, “Not my girl!” This was hardly the homecoming Margaret expected. She has forgotten her people’s language and can’t stomach her mother’s food. She isn’t even allowed to play with her friend Agnes, because she is now seen as too much like the despised outsiders. She has become a stranger to her own people. In this sequel, Margaret must begin a painful journey of learning how to fit in again, how to reconcile her old self with the new.

Taking the West / the Great Transformation
73072 DVD
240 min JIS 2001 Canadian Broadcasting Corp
Taking the West - The 1870s and 1880s are a time of trial for the young Dominion of Canada. The country’s first Prime Minister, John A. Macdonald, faces economic depression in the fast-growing factories of the east and a new revolt in the west, led by his old nemesis, Louis Riel. The suppression of the Northwest Rebellion and Macdonald’s single-minded insistence that the French-speaking Catholic Riel must hang for treason threatens to tear apart the fragile bond between Quebec and English Canada. During this same era, debates over provincial powers and the Manitoba Schools Question rage, and a dream is realized: the Canadian Pacific Railway links the country and opens the prairies to new floods. For grades 5-12. The Great Transformation - Massive waves of immigration, a headlong economic boom with the growth of prairie agriculture and urban industry transform Canada between 1896 and 1915. Those who shape the new society include peasants from Eastern Europe, in search of free land; socialists who try to mobilize an emerging urban working class; and campaigners for temperance and women’s suffrage. The dizzying pace of change also brings ethnic intolerance and racism, particularly against Asian immigrants. As well, growing tensions over Canada’s role in the British Empire help put an end to Sir Wilfrid Laurier’s reign in 1911. When World War I breaks out, a burst of enthusiasm in English Canada and resistance in French Canada foreshadows domestic conflict as wartime pressures grow. For grades 5-12.

In his 2003 NFB film Totem: the Return of the Gpsgolox Pole, filmmaker Gil Cardinal documented the struggle of the Haisla people of British Columbia to recover a traditional mortuary totem pole. Despite great efforts, the Haisla were unable to repatriate the pole from the Swedish museum in Stockholm where it was housed. In 2007, however, the Swedish museum quickly decided to return the pole to its rightful owners. This half-hour documentary follows the events of the final journey of the Gpsgolox Pole as it returns home to Kitamaat and the Haisla people.

When the World Began
CBC1703 Digitized Video
108:04 min JI 2000
The opening episode of this 17-part documentary ranges across the continent, looking back more than 15,000 years to recount the varied history of the first occupants of the territory that would become Canada. From the rich resource of native oral history and archeology come the stories of the land's first people - how dozens of distinct societies took shape, and how they encountered a strange new people, the Europeans. Among the earliest of these epoch-making encounters is the meeting between Jacques Cartier and Donnacona, the Iroquoian chief whom Cartier first met on the Gaspé shore in 1534 and later kidnapped. Later on the Pacific coast, Nootka chief Maquinna encounters John Jewitt, the English sailor who became his captive and eventually his reluctant friend.
